A dispatch, however, confirmatory in a degree, was received in Rome this morning from General Kuroki's headquarters. This telegram stated that the Japanese right wing had advanced toward Schilikio (probably Shi-Li-Ho, about ten miles to the south of Mukden). Should this position be maintained, the

It requires every moment it would snap off and send him to the ground. It requires a gallon of lead for each pole. Clark went to work at 7 o'clock this morning and "knocked off" at noon. He uses neither scaffolds or climbers, but has a trick of his own for climbing flag poles and smokestacks. He makes what he calls a slippery noose and hoists it to the top of the pole with a stick. The noose, so he says, adjusts itself to the top of the pole and Clark paints from the top to the bottom without altering it. He also has a contract to paint the poles on all of the police stations and engine houses in Washington.

Clotilda Bowle, Villiam I Bowie, R. Irving Bowie, and W. Beal Bowie, residents of Prince George's county, Maryland. The petition alleges county, Maryland. The petition alleges that the parties suing, having every confidence in Mr. Waggaman, at various times lent him large sums of money for investment on real estate security, it being their understanding that said moneys would be invested in properties of other persons than Mr. Waggaman, and they say that they did not know until recently that their money had been placed to a large extent at least in Mr. Waggaman's own properties. They ask that Mr. Waggaman be considered their trustee as to all the properties and notes in several lists on which their money was placed. One new feature of the petition i

Beall Bowie, certain sums which were partly drawn against until now there was a balance remaining of about $600.

The petition states that some of these notes were secured by what was known as the Nicholson jist of notes letter D, others by a list of thirty-eight notes aggregating $11,72.55, but that these notes having been paid in part without notice of trust duly recorded: B. H. C. Bowle,
